

Bank favourite signals new focus on growth

Can-do UK

By Tim Wallace and Jeremy Warner
THE Bank of England should worry less about inflation and focus on trying to boost economic growth, according to the bank's favourite to be the next governor.

Cummings: Labour won't be able to use vote to stop no-deal Brexit

By Tom Walker
Nothing they can do to stop a no-deal Brexit, even if Mr Johnson loses a confidence vote, because he could set the date for a general election after Oct 31.

We can't stop them forcing an election but we control the timetable, so we will force the date after Oct 31

Cummings was last night round-up by the Tory former Treasury official Nick Macpherson on Twitter.

PM to scrap limit on 'talent visas' to attract top scientists

By Camilla Tomlinson
NONE of the world's top scientists will be encouraged to move to the UK under a shake-up of immigration rules.

He felt they needed to be "Nobel Prize winning level". Introduced by George Osborne, the former Chancellor in 2011, they had a slow take-up, although later figures showed that 2,540 Tier 1 visas have since been granted.

Going forward, Rees-Mogg will update style guide

By Jessica Carpanel
JACOB REES-MOGG has revealed that "going forward" and the Oxford comma will be added to his list of banned words that previously went viral.

Interrail back on track after fears over damage to tourism

By James Rodwell
RAIL bosses have reversed their decision to scrap British membership of the EU Interrail scheme within 24 hours.

Remain MP sent death threats from retired policeman

A TOUV MP has stopped giving notice of her constituency surgeries because of death threats she received over her views on Brexit, a court heard.

Mr Lyons said that he agreed with Mr Carney's assessment that a no-deal Brexit would result in a shock to the economy. But he said the UK is well placed to cope, a message he feels the bank could have stressed more.

impact (of Brexit) will depend on how prepared we are and how the EU reacts. It should have been made clear that, whatever the short-term disruption, the economy would cope and policy would respond in an immediate and appropriate way."

"We've got lots of strengths going for us, but we need to adapt and change" valued Mr Lyons' advice and a governor considered more pro-Brexit may also appeal to him.

Editorial Comment Page 15
Business Page 31

Mr Macpherson, who was general secretary of the Treasury under David Cameron, Gordon Brown and Tony Blair, blamed Mr Cummings for "leaking" the plan to scrap the visa cap.

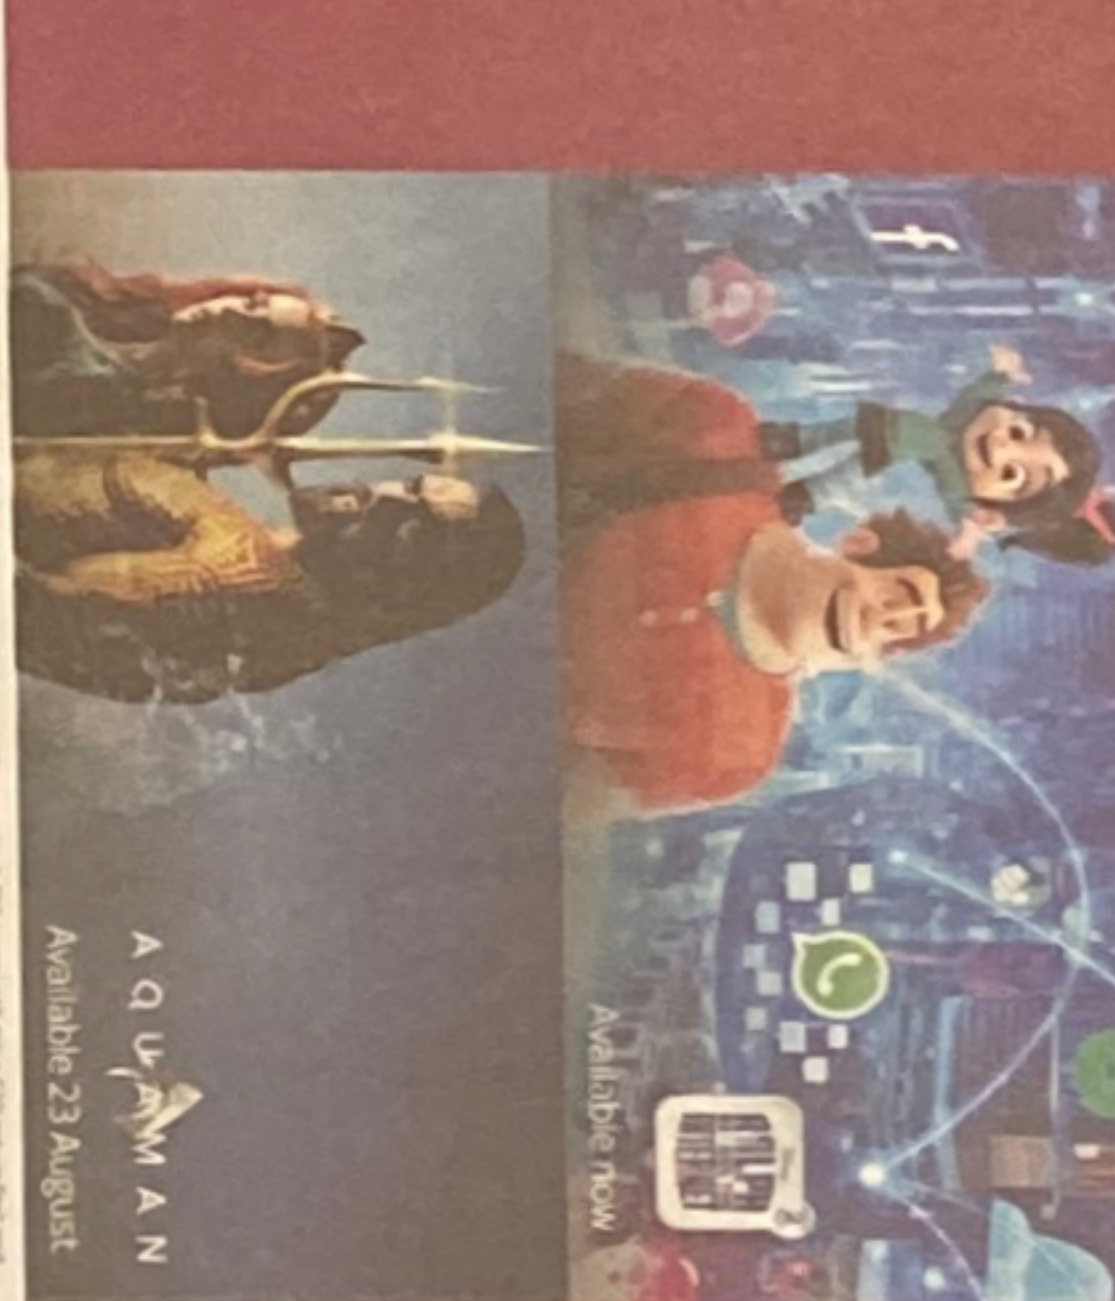

Labour's intervention has put Sir Mark, who is yet to respond, in an invidious position. Should he agree with Mr Corbyn, he risks putting Mr Johnson's administration and the civil service on a collision course over Brexit.

Chopper's Brexit Podcast
Paul Scully, the Conservative Party deputy chairman, says depriving Brexit again is more damaging than a no-deal on October 31.

Larry the Downing Street cat was seen with the Prime Minister on Monday.

SKY cinema HD
A brand new premiere every day
The perfect end to a summer's day
JUST £11 EXTRA A MONTH
SAVE 40%
For new and existing customers
Q Buy Sky Cinema 0800 759 1402

A Q U E E N
Available 23 August